Amazonas Sinchicuy Lodge

Located just 20 miles / 30 km from Iquitos on the Sinchicuy River, is an excellent getaway for a one or two nights stay in the Amazon.

The lodge has become home to a few orphaned jungle creatures such as woolly monkeys and saddlebacked tamarins that you may see climbing through the trees or roaming freely on the grounds. They also enjoy the company of humans a great deal! Along the riverbank you can find our hammock hut, and benches for relaxing and bird watching, or glimpsing Morpho Butterflies flashing their blue iridescence as they cross the river, and disappear into the green forest. The intimate dining room is a gathering place for interesting world travelers from all over the world.

Each of the 32 rooms has a private shower and bathroom, and can accommodate 1 to 4 guests. Kerosene lanterns light your room and are scattered along the wooden walkways providing a romantic glow, illuminating the night.

Activities include leisurely natural history walks, visits to native communities, fishing, early morning birdwatching, canoeing, night hikes, and excursions in search of the mysterious pink river dolphin.
