Day 04      CUSCO / INTI RAYMI PARTY

June 24      El Inti Raymi, the most splendid festivity of the Inca Empire, it is carried out at the end of June; that is, at the beginning of the winter solstice when the Sun is farther away from the earth. It is then that the harvest begins.

On the eve of the celebration, the most important people of the empire gathered in the main square. There were generals, princes, governors and the Inca himself, finely dressed, holding their shields and scepters.

The celebration is carried out in the Fortress of Sacsayhuaman (Saqsaywaman) and it represents the ceremony as it was done in the Tahuantinsuyu, but now at the sight of thousands of tourists.

The participants wear feathers, scarves and masks and carry spears. Jumping at a rhythm, they form figures, shouting prayers to the sun, to the rhythm of the flutes and drums.

It is a great, lively spectacle.
